

The 10th CAADP Partnership Platform Meeting - “All Africa Conference on Agriculture and Rural Development”

[19-22 March 2014, Durban International Convention Centre, Durban South Africa]

MEETING OBJECTIVES AND AGENDA

A. About the CAADP Partnership Platform

The origins of the CAADP Partnership, and later a platform, were initiated in 2005 during a consultative process involving the African Union Commission, the NEPAD Agency (then the NEPAD Secretariat), regional economic communities (RECs), national governments, private sector, farmer organizations and development partners. The idea was to provide a mechanism for lesson learning and experience sharing and improving the alignment and effectiveness of African and foreign partners with respect to the CAADP agenda. The CAADP Partnership was a response to the needs for a multi-stakeholder senior level mechanism with a continent-wide perspective to ensure effective monitoring of overall progress and facilitate the necessary coordination of efforts for a successful implementation of the CAADP agenda at all levels. The need for the Partnership, and later the Platform, was reaffirmed at the meeting of the African Partnership Forum (APF) in May 2006 and recognized as an instrument to build commitment for CAADP as a framework to support African agriculture (APF Report on Agriculture 2006). The benefits of such an arrangement include: (i) holding those in the CAADP Partnership accountable to the roles and responsibilities they commit; (ii) improved information provision, reduced transaction costs for CAADP policy and implementation agencies at continental, regional, and national levels, and a more consistent understanding of CAADP objectives and operational modalities across the different groups of actors and levels of implementation.

The CAADP Partnership Platform (PP) has evolved to become a forum for those in the partnership to report on and discuss progress in a number of areas including collective financing instruments and other public and private funding instruments. The 10th PP is unique as it comes at a critical reflection moment. It provides opportunity, and indeed will be used, to reflect on progress and to identify, based on lessons to date, goals, actions and targets Africa and its development partners commit to achieving over the next decade.

B. Objectives

The specific objectives of the 2014 PP in Durban are:

1. To share lessons and experiences from the last 10 years of CAADP implementation
2. To identify priority goals, actions and targets based on lessons learnt and emerging challenges and opportunities

3. To suggest concrete policy proposals, decisions, or declarations that Ministers and Heads of State and Governments should commit to for the next decade

C. Agenda at a glance

DAY 1 (March 18, 2014)

Morning: Open space: Stakeholders are free to convene and self-organize special interest meetings as they please
Afternoon: Opening ceremony and scene-setting

DAYS 2 & 3 (March 19 & 20, 2014)

Parallel sessions by work streams. For purposes of the 2014 Year of Agriculture discussions the agenda is being organized around nine work streams each of which has been allocated a full day (in parallel sessions) as follows:

Day 2 parallel sessions: Agricultural science agenda; inputs and inputs policy; land and land policy; and data, M&E and mutual accountability

Day 3 parallel sessions: Agriculture, climate and risk & resilience; public-private sector engagement and investment financing; food and nutrition security; policies and institutions; and regional trade and infrastructure
Expected to start work well before the PP meeting, each work stream is expected to undertake extensive technical consultations to review evidence, lessons and experience and future actions that will define the implementation of these work streams in the next decade. During the parallel sessions, each work stream group will be required to make detailed thoroughly discussion lessons to date and based on these as well as new opportunities and challenges , make concrete proposals on what needs to be going forward – goals and actions – as well as targets that should be set for the next decade. These session outputs will feed into the plenary in day 3 – which will form an important filter to generate candidate priorities.

DAY 4 (March 21, 2014)

PLENARY:A set of plenary sessions to share outputs from work stream discussions; high level panels to contribute to the emerging priorities; and a synthesis of candidate proposals being taken forward to the Ministerial meeting in April/May 2014.

DAY 5 (March 22, 2014)

CAADP Business Meeting: This meeting will be attended by representatives of different stakeholders and is by Invitations Only
